

Nomura Global Shariah Strategic Growth Fund - Class B

February 2025

Fund Commentary and Strategy

US market took a breather in February amidst Trump-driven headlines of renewed tariffs on its major trading partners. However, Europe outperformed as the outcome of the German federal elections led to the prospects of the new government releasing the country's historical 'debt brake'. As such, the Dow Jones Islamic Market ("DJIM") World Index fell by -2.64% and the MSCI All Country World Index ("ACWI") dropped by -0.70% (both in USD terms) for the month. US treasury yields declined sharply over the month while the USD strengthened marginally by +0.11% vs. MYR. The Fund's NAV for Class B, recorded -0.82%. Equity investments contributed -1.79% whilst cash, sukuk investments and the currency hedges contributed +0.97%.

Equity Contribution -1.79%

Increasing rhetoric from the Trump administration on impending tariffs onto the major trading partners of US dented risk sentiments over the month, leading to the US market heading lower. The sell-off was further accentuated by economic data which indicated that consumer sentiments weakened following the uncertainty surrounding tariffs. By sector, communication services and consumer discretionary underperformed while financials and consumer staples held up. We maintained equity exposure above 60% from the prior month, though diversified our geographical exposure by switching our holdings away from US to EU and Japan.

We expect the Federal Reserve to hold interest rate unchanged through 1H2025, amid potential tariff-induced inflation pressure. Nevertheless, we believe that the 100bps reduction of policy rate thus far will provide some relief to corporates. As such, we will cautiously maintain our relatively high equity allocation with the following allocation: (1) defensives such as healthcare and consumer staples, and (2) pockets of secular growth such as AI and software.

Fixed Income & FX hedges Contribution +0.97%

Our sukuk investments via the Collective Investment Scheme ("CIS") namely Dow Jones Global Sukuk ETF contributed +0.97%, as sukuk yields declined sharply, in tandem with lower US Treasury yields on the back of the risk-off environment and weaker macroeconomic data streaming out of the US. Currency-wise, a marginally weaker MYR contributed to overall returns.

Summary

We have maintained our equities positioning, with a two pronged approach to strike a balance between defensive positioning while still maintaining exposure to sectors that are in secular growth mode. In order to manage the risk associated with the Trump administration, we will diversify into other geographical regions, while remaining faithful to our approach of investing into high quality growth companies. We will continue to maintain sizeable allocation to sukuk investments (via CIS) and Islamic deposits given elevated interest rate levels.
